

BIO5 INSTITUTE
FELLOWS

Casey Romanoski, PhD

BIO5 Fellows are scientists who have expressed a desire to work in a hub for innovation and creativity, with a translational focus towards developing new technologies, diagnostics, and treatments to solve humanity's grand biological challenges.

Assistant Professor of Cellular and Molecular Medicine

Research Focus: To leverage the power of genetics to identify the the molecular drivers of phenotype differences between cell types and individuals.

From RESEARCH

to IMPACT